

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Image information is transferred between an imaging device and a host system. The host system detects that an imaging device is connected to the host system. In response to detecting the imaging device, one or more images are 5 transferred between the imaging device and the host system.